CONCORD, N. H., Da . 15, 1854

The Democracy of New Hampshire.

There was formerly a democratic patty in New Hampshire whose liberal principles, state construction of the constitution, freedom from debusing sectionalism and intolerance, made them, at once the enemies of after laws and abolition ste, the friends of religious freedom, and the protectors of the just rights of the South. For a quarter of a century these endightened views found as eloquest exponent in that practical state man; Levi Wood bury, whose progressive democracy reflected the lamper of bis constituents. Has the earth, which opened to receive his bones, engalphed with them the last of the haven of Jackson democracy? Fruly, present appearances favor the supposition.

The tortuous policy and crooked p inciples manry of his 5 are in a perplexing for, which they seem unable to clear up. Let us regard the elements. General Pierce is the prop and may of the Nebraska bilt and of the repeal of the Missouri compromise; he is supported by the resolves of the Democratic State Convention; yet before the autumn clears up his own district, Hon. Geb. W. Morthers and determined to the country of the Beauty is rison, a determ ted opponent of tress measures, is renominated for Congress by the Democratic District Convention, and endorsed by them. The President is also endorsed by the same convention. In order that no doubt should exist as to the confraternity of these two chiefs, the only living brosser of the President is essected a committee to anomace to Mr. Morrison has renomination, and solicit his acceptance of the same. This humilation of the President second of the same. dent seems to have wrong a reluctant consent from the gratified pride of Morrison. He and bearded the President to the halls of Congress—he had re turned a debus e to his threats of "crushing out his name trote the list of the faithful—he and me the Legislature of his State at their June session, and received a large and continued complimentary yote from the abeliannists and whigs, for Secutor to the defeat of Mr. Wells, the regular candidate of the democracy. While the grass was yet growing over which he tred to these acts, the lim of the White House lay down with this would lamb in peace, eating his words, swallowing his anger, and humbly soliciting the man who despised his power and defied his anger, to a reunion. Mr. Morrison and defied his enger, to a re-union. Mr. Morrison has beaped coals of fire on Pierce's head; he has forgiven him. In the eastern district of Now Hampshire was found another democratic member of Congress. Dr. Kittredge, who dared oppose the President on the Nebraska bill; he also has realized that threatened men live long. Neither the power of the White House, or the resolutions of the Democratic State Convention, have indued this sturdy doctor, to condone for his offence against the vanity of the President, and with defian 9 on his brow and free sollism in his heart, Dr. Kittrege has been renominated by a vote unanimonal except two delegates in a large and abe convention of the democrats of that destrict, while the organ at Concord says lans dee. For the second time we see in the resolutions the mingled pratess of Pierce and Kittredge, the latent Southern principles of a Northern President, and the practical abolitionism for a home market. At the session of the legislature the votes of the abolitionists and the whige were given to resolutions of amplianeating Messrs. Morrison and Kittredge on their course in Congress in opposition to the Nebraska bill, and while the party collar democrate unanimously opposed them.

The State Convention of the democrats nominated also Golonel Nat Baker for Governor, a special partizan and personal friend of the President, and no sconer was "Nat." nominated than he joined the first lodge of the Know Nothings he could reach, and is now understood to be Grand Powow of the order in the State. It is also said that other friends of Gen. Plerce, especially the real care of the hitchen cabinet, him whe dry-nursed Tyler as he is now spoon-feding Pierce with political wisdom, rushed into the order, and have made desperate efforts to control it for their special brandit. Thousands of Gen. Pierce has he will be excepted to Juglass, the stoul Bigler, and the segations and foreaking the fidelity and hone of yearty obligations and foreaking the fidelity and hone of yearty obligations are ferme has beaped coals of fire on Pierce's head; he has forgiven him. In the eastern district of New Hamp-soilers for Congress. If there are any of the o democra y left in New Hampshire, I pity the labo of digestion devolved on them. P. Q.

Our Rochester Correspondence.

Rochester, Dec. 13, 1854.

The Weather—Sleighing—Briskness of the Provision Trade—Filibustering Expedition to the Magnito Territory—White Slavery in Canada. The weather here is unusually mild, and the snow is passing away rapidly; the streets, however, present a perfect jam of country sleighs, and the sleighs present another perfect jam of slaughtered high pand poultry, beef and mutton. When I emerged into Main street this moraing, and saw hundreds of into Main street this morning, and saw hundreds of loads and immense piles of pork, I began to doubt whether I had not taken the wrong direction, and landed in Cincianati. It may be a matter of incet to the decizees of the metropolis, and paricularly those mechanics who are out of employ. ment, to know at what prices the above articles are seiling at. Beef, by the quarter, ranges from 4½, to 6c. per lb.; perk, do.; poultry, 4½ to 8c.; mutton and lamb, 2½c. to 5c.

The snew has been about three feet on a level, and in consequence of the excellent sleighing there is an unusual throng of country people is town, giving an impulse to trade that is retreshing and encouraging.

and in consequence of the excellent sleighing there is an unusual throng of country people in town, giving an impulse to trade that is refreshing and encouraging.

Canal boats, laden with produce for the New York markes, and others freighted with merchandies for country trade, have been caught by the local along the whote length of the canal. This gives increased activity to the business of the Central Railread, and will assist to pay the dividend upon the advance in the stock.

The Rev. E. H. Chaptu lectures here to night before the Athensian Association. Everybody intends going, and an overflowing house is expected. In locking over the Hamilton Spectator and Jeurnal of Commerce, of Canada West, I find the following row and interesting piece of information. It will no doubt astonish the administration, as it is undombtedly authentic—over the left. They must look to the haurist won at Greytown, or the New York fillbusters will cut them out:

Anormic Phinerathino Movement—it was intimated by telegraph some time since that a company of young men was about to be organized in New York for the purpose of colonizing a portion of the Mosquito Tarritory, which has been so long in dispute. It was represented on the part of the so-called colonization company that the lands they intended to settle on were those purchased by certain American residents; and that in order to carry out the establishment of an independent republic, a proposition would be made to the inhabitants of Greytown to join them in the contemplated movement. Such a scheme is in direct violation of the existing protectorate Greet Britain holds over the Mosquito territory, and it now turns out that the government of Micarsyus does not acquiesce in the movement, but on the contrary regards it as another of those slibustering after mpts for which our republican neighbors have become so famous. The Mesquite government is about to interpose an energetic remonstrance with the government of Micarsyus does not acquiesce in the movement, but on the contemplated e

From the same paper I also clip the follow back the fine was enforced.

It speaks for itself, demonstrating the relations relating between master and alave—so, I mean sormant—under the government of the blessed Queen, and in the land that affords an asylum for the poer lave from the United States.
